

CAMPAIGNING DURING COVID-19 GUIDELINES FOR POLITICAL PARTIES AND CANDIDATES

Updated Jan 27, 2021

ELECTION YUKON'S RESPONSE TO COVID-19

Elections Yukon is responsible for the administration of an election. While the Elections Act does not contemplate a campaign during a pandemic, Elections Yukon has a clear responsibility to protect public health to ensure a safe electoral process for all in delivering a fair, compliant and impartial election. Elections Yukon is committed to ensuring safe and secure elections for members of the Legislative Assembly, election workers, candidates, the electorate, and the public.

To do this, Elections Yukon is working in close collaboration with the Department of Health and Social Services to put the necessary COVID-19 measures and precautions in place. The election will be administered following guidelines established by the Chief Medical Officer of Health (CMOH) and leveraging the best practices of other jurisdictions. Elections Yukon had piloted a number of COVID-19 measures and guidelines for the general election for members of a school council in the fall of 2020. Additional measures may also be established by the Chief Electoral Officer to further protect election officials and the public.

Elections Yukon has developed a business continuity plan to provide the direction necessary to administer an election during various COVID-19 pandemic and post-pandemic scenarios. To that end, the three objectives of the Elections Yukon measures are:

- safeguarding the health of the public and election workers;
- ensuring access to electors to exercise their right to vote and be a candidate; and
- protecting the integrity of the election process and validity of the results.

The information provided below outlines some of the measures Elections Yukon will implement during the election period. It is to be considered by political entities, candidates, and scrutineers in their pre-election outreach and during the election period at various election venues such as returning offices and polling places.

These guidelines, produced in consultation with the CMOH, are to support a safe territorial general election for all stakeholders. If there is a discrepancy between this guidance and that of the Chief Medical Officer of Health, the CMOH guidance would take precedence.

General Guidance to Political Parties and Political Campaigns

The nature of election campaigns is for close contact with the public. This includes rallies, fundraising events, and campaign outreach to electors at businesses, gatherings, and at their homes. There is general concern and heightened anxiety in the public regarding in-person contact.

- Remember in your planning and due diligence measures for COVID-19 that there are Yukoners who have health concerns or are in a compromised health situation and may be vulnerable. They depend on you to follow established guidelines to protect their health.
- Develop a safety plan for your team. Considerations include a risk assessment (where people congregate, tasks of workers), implementation measures (physical distancing, masks, actions where physical distancing not possible, cleaning and hygiene), policies (such as use of masks, if in close contact, symptoms, or told to self isolate), and communication and training (briefing to teams on policies and materials).
- Minimizing face-to-face interactions where possible by finding alternate ways to accomplish objectives. This may include organizing meeting in small, physically distanced groups.
- Use of a mask is mandatory in all public spaces. Masks do not replace physical distancing requirements.
- Every person entering Yukon has to self-isolate for 14 days and complete a declaration form. Yukon residents and family members can isolate where the Yukon resident lives. Non-Yukon residents must self-isolate in Whitehorse.
- Stay home if you're feeling sick, feeling unwell or have COVID-19 symptoms; (fever, sore throat, shortness of breath, etc). Please get tested if you are symptomatic.
- Complete the online self-assessment tool; <https://service.yukon.ca/en/covid-19-self-assessment/>
- Maintain physical distancing – keep two metres away from everyone who is not a member of your social bubble.
- Wash hands frequently with soap and water or use hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol (use a Health Canada approved hand sanitizer).
- Follow all guidance from the Chief Medical Officer of Health.

PRE-EVENT AND ELECTION PERIOD GUIDELINES

Guidelines for Door-to-Door Campaigning by Candidates and their Representatives

- Candidates and representatives who are feeling ill should stay home and complete the online self assessment tool <https://service.yukon.ca/en/covid-19-self-assessment/> Please get tested if symptomatic.
- Consider providing advance notice of your campaign – times and routes. This can be done by social media; you may wish to outline your safety plan. Some electors may prefer to be reached by alternate means and contact information for your political offices may be helpful.
- Doorstep protocols include ring or knock on the door and step back two steps to ensure a safe distance of at least six feet between candidates/representatives and the door/individuals at the door.

- Wear masks for the duration of door-to-door campaigning. Provide masks, gloves, and sanitizers to campaign personnel. Sanitize hands before and after contact with each household.
- Consider reducing the number of canvassers.
